FRIDAY, APRIL 13.

We are indebted to the politeness of the editor of the Whig for the following Asiatic intelligence, furnished him by Capt. Russell, of the brig Dolly, arrived yesterday from Madras, via Ceylon and Cape of Good Hope: (Balt. American.)

The Dolly left Ceylon on the last of November and the Cape Good Hope the last of January. Two days before the departure of the Dolly from Ceylon, the governor received official advice of the capture of Tappanooly, a port on the West coast of Sumatra belonging to the British by a French squadron from Batavia which had coasted up the straits of Malacca and along the coast of Sumatra, where they had captured a vast number of prizes and carried them into Tappanooly. Among these were 13 Americans with dollars which they had not time to convert into paper as they intended.

The French had landed a considerable force at Tappanooly, which they were fortifying with expedition, having resolved to establish themselves there on account of its good harbor and advantageous position. They gave laws to the surrounding country.

While at the Cape of Good Hope, a French prize brig arrived, captured on her voyage from the Isle of France, which she left January 5 for Bordeaux. Captain Mix, of New York, a passenger on board the prize, informed Captain R. that the British still kept up a vigorous blockade on that and the adjacent island, notwithstanding which flour sold for eight dollars per barrel and beef ten. The governor of the Isles of France and Bourbon, (Gen. Ducoing) has, during the last year put an entire stop to the cultivation of coffee thereon, giving every encouragement to the planters to cultivate wheat and other produce necessary to the support of the inhabitants. It was calculated there was wheat enough on the island for three year's consumption.

Among the number of passengers on board the prize at the Cape was Captain White, late of the brig Mohawk, of this port, who had sold his vessel and cargo at the Isle of France.

Latitude 34° 55' long. 34° W. spoke English ship Alexander, Hughes, from Liverpool to Pernambuco. Captain Hughes informed that notwithstanding the non-intercourse law, he never saw the harbor of Liverpool crowded so much with American shipping as at one time as at present, most of whom had evaded our interdicting laws. Their crews were mostly turned ashore to seek their bread, and the vessels advertised for sale, which overstocked that port with American seamen. Of the Alexander's crew, 17 in number, 16 were Americans, only a few months from the U. States.

April 3, lat. 36° 40' N. long. 65° 30' W. was boarded by a lieutenant from a British frigate, who overhauled and strictly examined the Dolly's papers. The frigate was one of four from Bermuda, two of which were to cruise off the Capes of Virginia, and two off the Capes of Delaware.

The Episcopal Congregation are respectfully informed that the Rev. Mr. BARCLAY'S Church will be opened for a regular performance of Divine Service on Sunday next.

FROM THE AMERICAN GAZETTE.

National Receipts and Expenditures.
I have no recollection of having seen a correct statement of the receipts and expenditures of the National government for the last twenty years, as they refer to the success or antagonism of the national debt, and as an exhibit of this kind would afford a pleasing view of our progress from a very small beginning to a condition exceedingly respectable, I have taken some pains to enable me to lay such a statement before my readers. In doing this I shall follow the rule laid down by Mr. Gallatin, that of dividing the twenty years into two periods of ten each, commencing with the year 1790 and ending with the year 1799, both inclusive. The second period will of course commence with the year 1800 and terminate with that of 1809, including both. The first comprehends as to receipts & expenses since the revolutionary debt was funded, the administration of Washington and Adams, and the second embraces the administration of Jefferson. In stating the receipts I shall confine myself to those from the custom houses, which come under the denomination of duties on imports and tonnage, and which, as to a comparison of the two periods, will be found to be equal and therefore just, if we consider, which is the fact, that the treasury receipts from the sale of lands since the year 1801, are equal in amount to those derived from the extra internal taxes at a particular period of the administration of Mr. Adams.

The public debt on the first of January 1790, when it was funded and ascertained,

The Receipts of the government during the same period were as follow:

Increase of debt (according to Mr. Gallatin)	1790	1791	1792	1793	1794	1795	1796	1797	1798	1799
Duties on imports and tonnage, in		6,657,319.44	4,399,472.99	3,632,013.66	4,604,692.77	5,103,203.39	5,949,216.62	7,117,567.38	8,191,237.10	7,790,933.88
										7,431,875.75

Total of Receipts (including the increase of debt) from 1790 to 1799, both inclusive.
The following are the receipts of the government from the same source of revenue from 1800 to 1809, both inclusive.

Embargo year	1800	1801	1802	1803	1804	1805	1806	1807	1808	1809
Non-intercourse year	9,250,640	10,809,000	12,280,000	11,306,000	12,672,000	13,083,833	14,809,758	16,059,924	10,332,163	6,500,000

Total amount of Receipts from 1800 to 1809, both inclusive.
Increase of Receipts in favor of the second period, or during Mr. Jefferson's administration, [fifty-five millions eight hundred and ninety-four thousand seven hundred and seventy-four dollars & eighty-two cents.]

But, according to Mr. Gallatin's Report of Dec. 1809, there has been paid of the public debt during Mr. Jefferson's administration,

Balance against the second period of Mr. Jefferson's administration, [twenty-one million, ninety-eight thousand, seven hundred and seventy-four dollars, and eighty-two cents.]

It follows that the second period has been more expensive to the nation than the first by the sum of twenty-one millions ninety-eight thousand seven hundred and seventy-four dollars and eighty-two cents. The reflection may not be agreeable, but truth should be followed lead where it will. The debt which our republican administration has extinguished in the second period is undoubtedly so much inferior in amount to the increase of our receipts during the same time. I have nothing to do with that side of the party question which would increase the balance against the second period by enumerating the expense incurred by the suppression of two rebellions during the first. I have made a national not a party statement.

* Printed by E. M. and W. J. A. Davis. All my calculations in this paper are taken from Mr. Gallatin's "Views," and from his official reports whilst secretary of the treasury.

Alexandria Daily Gazette.

FRIDAY, APRIL 13.

[C.] The Boston papers received by last evening's mail furnish nothing of importance more than was contained in the summary published in this Gazette yesterday morning.

MARRIED on Wednesday evening last, at Dumfries, by the Rev. Mr. O'Neal, Doctor THOMAS TRIPLETT, of the U. States navy, to Miss MARGARET C. TEBBS, of that place.

Mr. Snowden.

Being yesterday a loungee in the gallery of the senate chamber, I felt infinite mortification and disgust at the total disregard, or hostility of a majority of the members of that body towards the interests of the district of Columbia, as manifested by their observations and their votes upon the subject of the incorporation of our banks. The celebrated Michael Leib moved the postponement of the consideration of the subject to a distant day, by way of rejection, and was supported by his friend General S. Smith. (His noble fratrum) and notwithstanding the able manner in which Mr. Brent, of Virginia, supported the claims of the district upon their attention, and the great interest which the back country trading with the district, had in the establishment of the banks, the motion for postponement prevailed. It is difficult in many cases to account for the feelings which appear to prevail with a majority of the members, in relation to our interests. In most cases dependence excites affection in the human mind towards the dependent object; but unfortunately in ours the Congress of the U. States manifests nothing of that paternal regard which we expected, but on the contrary acts towards us with the indifference and cruelty of a wayward step-mother. That the vital interests of fifteen or twenty thousand people under their immediate legislation, should be deemed too unimportant to claim a few hours of their time, manifests a degree of cold, unfeeling cruelty, and contempt of the principles of justice, which we are not much surprised to find in a Lill & Smith; but which when found in a majority of the members of the senate, excites our mortification and astonishment. From Michael Leib we should expect the reverse of right on all occasions; and of General Smith it is remarked that, whatever can have a tendency to promote the interests of the district, meets with his uniform opposition direct or indirect, for which he has ever ready some flimsy pretext. Does he expect to recommend himself to the citizens of Baltimore by obstructing the progress of a commercial neighbor? From my knowledge of the Baltimoreans, I think him mistaken—I believe that the respectable part of them, secure in their own property, cannot readily let themselves down to the level of those little jealous feelings of the general. But so it has been, that our roads, our bridges, our banks, and insurance companies have all been subject to the opposition of the honorable senator from Maryland.

A CITIZEN OF THE DISTRICT.

April 12.

[We copy the following observations on the paragraph, which appeared some days since in the National Intelligencer, respecting our affairs with France, from the Norfolk Ledger.]

After what we have published respecting the intelligence brought by the Fama, Captain Stone, it cannot be expected that we will permit the preceding article to pass without notice.

It has been our practice, heretofore, to receive such articles, when coming in the shape which this is presented, with a considerable degree of confidence in their correctness; but in this case we do not hesitate to declare our total disbelief. It is directly opposed to some facts, which come within our own knowledge, and others that we derive from information to which we have a right to place the utmost confidence, that we cannot permit ourselves to be imposed upon, even by the first-class paper which is assumed. As the National Intelligencer has stated the views of Mr. Ar-strong letter to the secretary of state, it is presumable that the information is from an official source. — It is not for us to say what Mr. Armstrong has written, whether he deceives his government, or the government attempts to deceive the people, but we do say, that it was not the opinion of Americans in official character in France, when Capt. Stone left that country, that there was any hope of accommodation with the French government, or (to use the equivocal language of the paragraph we have quoted) "that our affairs with the French government had at that time assumed a more favorable aspect." What were the circumstances that induced this expectation? Were any of our vessels restored, or was it in the power of Mr. Armstrong to procure the release of his fellow citizens from French prisons, where they were fed on bread and water? These indeed would have been evidences of a more "favorable aspect."

In our paper of Monday last we noticed the manner in which our countrymen and their property were treated in France, and which so far from being exaggerated, we are assured by those who were eye witnesses, that it is but a faint outline of the horrid picture of cruelty and rapaciousness. — We repeat what we have before said, that from the inhuman treatment which the American seamen receive in France, they are often compelled to enter on board of the French privateers, and moreover that this circumstance is known to our minister, through Mr. Wardle the consul general, and sometimes by memorials addressed directly to the minister.

It may not be irrelevant to observe that occasionally the crews are not imprisoned. Those who are captured under the Berlin decree, that is, for coming from, or attempting to go to any British port, experience the most rigorous treatment; those captured under the Milan decree, that is for having been visited by a British cruiser, are treated with less rigor. In every case we are assured that the British prisoners, officers and men, are treated with more respect and humanity than the Americans; and this is so obvious, that our unfortunate countrymen have begged to be treated as prisoners of war, and not like calprits, tied to the cords, and marched to prison through the streets of a populous city.

We ask what is the information which Gen. Armstrong has furnished upon the interesting subject which has just been noticed? What information we ask, has been furnished respecting the proceedings relative to American property, which is sent into the French ports? We are informed, and there can be no mistake in this information, that the moment the vessel arrives, the American master and his crew are sent on shore, sometimes to prison, and sometimes not. The captors instantly strip the vessel and unlade the cargo, and deposit it in some place unknown to the American master or any of his officers or crew, and then commence the law proceedings, which in no case yet have been brought to a favorable conclusion.

If Mr. Armstrong knew that "our affairs with the French government had assumed a more favorable aspect," he certainly did not afford this information to his countrymen generally. The manner in which the Fame was restored (if we may be allowed to use that term) has been already stated, and we repeat that except by a compromise there are no hopes of getting any part of the property in the hands of the French; the nature and extent of the compromise, it is obvious, will vary according to circumstances, but surely if our affairs with France had assumed this favorable aspect, no American would have compromised.

There is now no doubt as to the seizure and sequestration of American property in St. Sebastians, and other ports, about the beginning of January. — How is this accounted for?

We have said more upon this subject than we intended; but much less than it deserves; but while we conduct a public journal, we will not be silent, when we are convinced that there is an attempt to deceive the public for the purposes which we neither know nor care for by the suppression of truth, or the suggestion of falsehood.

The embargo according to Mr. Gallatin's report, has lessened our annual income nine millions of dollars. And what are the benefits which the people have received from it in return? Let their empty purses, rotten ships, mouldy produce, and frequent bankruptcies give the answer.

(Virg. Patriot.)

The democrats do not boast quite so much of their economy now as they formerly did. No! France, an empty treasury and economy, do not exactly agree together.

It will hardly do to require a loan of millions for the immediate support of the government, and then if questioned by the people how so much money came to be wanting, to tell them, "it is all the fruit of our blessed system of economy." As Tom Paine says: "These things would not be well in history." (Ibid.)

On the 14th of February the fleets of Pelson and Christophe, the two black chiefs of St. Domingo, consisting of two ships and seven or eight brigs and schooners each, met and had a pretty smart brush, in which Christophe lost a brig and had his two ships very much maulled, and their rigging cut to pieces. (N. Y. paper.)

FOR SALE.

THE Long Island, situated on the banks of the Potomac, and about thirty miles from the great falls of Potomac, in the county of Fairfax, on the east side from Alexandria and the city of Washington, twenty miles from the former and fourteen from the latter.

It can be divided so as to give an equal proportion of woodland, of which it has a sufficiency to each part. There is no tract of the same size in the county that is better watered, that has a larger proportion of meadow land, nor so one in the state on which Plaster of Paris answers better.

May meet with as steady sale as at Alexandria or Washington.

There are on it two Mill Seats, a Stone Quarry, and an excellent situation for a Distillery.

I will give a bargain in one half or the whole of the above property, all on a liberal credit, or receive approved property on that district in payment.

Also, containing 214 acres.

A Farm in Loudoun, adjoining the lands of Ludwell Lee, esq. on the south side of Goose Creek, five miles from Leesburg.

It has comfortable improvements, is well timbered and watered.

Also,

A tract of Land, containing 3 1/2 acres, in the district of Columbia between 7 and 8 miles from Alexandria, and about four from George Town or Washington.

More than half this land is in valuable timber, has a large quarry of building stone, and is well watered. This meadow land is situated above a mile by four mile run. The road from George Town and Washington goes through it.

The improvements are indifferent. It has several elegant sites for building and commands a prospect of Washington and the adjacent country.

For this and the farm in Loudoun I will give a generous credit or exchange them for property in Alexandria.
